Guidelines for Leaders, Participants and Veterinarians

Judging the acceptability of calves for EastGen Youth Events

Information compiled by the Calf Health Team including: Dr's Tim Henshaw (Eastgen), Christie Morrow (Heartland Veterinary Services), Rex Crawford (Dufferin Veterinary Services) and Ann Godkin (OMAFRA Veterinary Science and Policy).

Participants should bring only healthy calves to a show, clinic or achievement day. The guidelines provide a standard interpretation of what will be considered acceptable and what will not be.

Skin lesions are visible indicators of infection. The presence of skin lesions in show calves will impact on acceptance to shows. Contact a veterinarian to identify and treat skin problems and infections well in advance of show or achievement day.

1. No calves with visible warts will be accepted at the show.

Why aren't calves with any warts allowed in shows?

Visible warts are aesthetically displeasing. The virus that causes warts is contagious to other cattle.

Rationale:

- Warts can easily be removed by a veterinarian and removal sites heal quickly
- Participants and calf owners are responsible for inspecting calves frequently to identify warts on calves as soon as possible.
- Participants and calf owners are responsible for seeking veterinary advice or assistance to remove warts at least 3 weeks prior to show dates
- Therefore, calves with any visible warts will not be allowed on the show grounds.

2. No calves with active ringworm will be accepted at the show. Some calves may be accepted in spite of having had ringworm.

Why aren't calves with ringworm allowed in shows?

Visible ringworm is aesthetically displeasing. Active ringworm is contagious to other cattle and to people.

Why are some calves accepted and others not allowed in shows?

Rationale:

- Ringworm, even with effective treatment, takes a long time to completely heal. Healed ringworm may leave visible lesions or changes to the hair coat or underlying skin for months even though active infection has ended.
- Information regarding treatments given or tests done on calves (scrapings, cultures, etc.) will not impact on the decision regarding acceptable vs. unacceptable. Visible lesions on calves are aesthetically unappealing and regardless of other information may prevent the calf from being admitted to shows.

Calves will be accepted if all of the following are true:

- The lesion is small or moderate in size (< 2.5 cm in diameter).
- The lesion is completely hair covered.
- Discolouration of hair or skin under hair may be present

Calves will NOT be accepted if any of the following are true:

- Any lesion is greater than 2.5 cm in diameter
- Any part of the lesion is not completely hair covered

Ringworm: Examples of Acceptable and Unacceptable Skin Lesions on Calves

Acceptable because:

- Healed
- Hair covered

NOT Acceptable because:

- Clearly visible
- No hair cover
- Crusty, scabby cover
- More than one lesion
- One lesion is large (greater than 2.5 cm)
